Emblem In Every Salem Home By Saturday Is Pledge Slogan

CHANCE TO DONATE TO USO AND CHINA

Campaigners who are seeking war bond pledges, in a three-day canvass of the city, have an additional job.

It has been revealed that a number of citizens who desire to contribute to the U. S. O. and China Relief drive still have envelopes which have not been opened.

In any case of this kind, the contributor will find the war bond pledge worker willing and anxious to pick up his USO-China Relief contribution and turn it over to the proper committee.

SUPPLY CHIEF NOW IN LONDON

U. S. Officer Joins Leaders Of American Army and Navy Air Forces

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, May 27.—Lieut. Gen. Breton B. Somervell arrived here today to sound out the United States military mission conferring with British war chiefs, and London commentators expressed belief a united air assault was planned to blast the way for a future Allied landing on the German-occupied continental coast.

General Somervell heads the United States army's supply division, which is charged with handling the thousands of tons of food, clothing and munitions needed to help any major expeditionary force in the field.

Brigadier Generals Leroy Lutes, Charles P. Gross and William C. Lee accompanied him.

See Combined Attack

"Plans for a combined Anglo-American attack on the Axis powers are being discussed," the Daily Telegraph said. "It can confidently be predicted that one outcome will be a great intensification of the air attack on Germany from the west."

The Daily Mail said a liaison system "which both the United States and the RAF have stated to be 'wholly acceptable' has been drawn up," providing for separate operation of the air fleets, but coordination in strategy such as the selection of bombing targets.

The Daily Express said "The Americans have numbers of dive-bombers," which many military experts regard as essential to furnish close support for any ground operations in modern war. Britain has few such planes.

The United States officers conferred with the corresponding officers in Britain's air, sea and land services.

Completes Mission

General Somervell's arrival completed the United States military mission in conference with a British mission and it now includes approximately two-thirds of the top-ranking American general staff.

The American mission is headed by Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, head of the army air forces, and Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of naval aeronautics.

Other members include Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, head of the operations division of the war department's general staff, and Maj. Gen. Mark W. Clark, chief of staff of the army ground forces.

150 Campaigners Begin Canvass To List Bond Pledges

No Orders to Be Taken; Will Simply Record Intent of Buying

With the slogan, "A window emblem in every home in Salem by Memorial day," 150 men and women set out this morning to solicit War Savings Bond pledges from every wage and income earner in the city.

By nightfall hundreds of homes will display the blue and white Minuteman emblem, "We Are Buying," and by Friday night the volunteer soldiers in a cause fully expected that every home in the city will have been visited.

Get Final Instructions

These 150 campaigners and their 15 team captains received their final instructions and supplies as they met in the Memorial building last night.

This campaign for voluntary pledges was explained in detail by Chairman L. H. Colley and his aides, Ralph Hawley and Charles McCormick, and the team captains provided each worker with a handbook for canvassers, official badges to wear, pledge books to be signed and Minuteman emblems to be given to every one who signs the pledge to continue buying bonds or to start buying them now.

Only those who sign the pledges will be given the emblems. However, the pledge is not an order for the purchase of bonds; it is a promise to buy a certain amount at regular intervals through an authorized agency. Those agencies are the two banks, the savings and loan company, postoffice, and the two theaters in Salem, or by mail to the U. S. treasury.

Those already buying bonds in some systematic manner should sign the pledge cards. It does not mean for them any additional purchase or promise. It simply puts their present commitment on record and permits them to receive the window emblem.

Husbands are urged to inform their wives of the amount of their payroll deduction so the latter may enter it on the pledge card.

All Information Confidential

All information so given is confidential. Campaigners are pledged not to reveal any information they receive during the canvass.

By taking pledges, the U. S. treasury department will be able to compute the extent of the nation's willingness to voluntarily finance the war. If the response in Salem, in Ohio and throughout the country is sufficient there will be no occasion for a compulsory tax or forced savings to finance the war.

Each campaigner was given 22 homes to contact. The first day's results, showing the number of homes visited, the number of pledge cards signed and the total amount pledged, is to be reported to the team captains not later than 10 a. m. Thursday. The same instructions apply to the following two days' efforts.

MALLOY SPEAKS OF CIVILIAN DEFENSE

Fire Chief Vincent Malloy spoke on the subject, "How We Can All Help in Civilian Defense Work in Salem," at the meeting of the Rotary club Tuesday noon at the Memorial building. In his talk Malloy outlined the work already being done in this respect in Salem.

He explained the organization of the fire brigades in the various plants of the city and of the auxiliary firemen's classes open to all who wish to volunteer for this type of work. First aid classes have also been set up and are running smoothly. Malloy declared that there is a very definite need for about 50 volunteers who would like air raid warden or fire spotters' posts.

Malloy was presented by Joseph Bryan, program chairman.

18-20 YOUTHS MAY BE CALLED

Administration Considering Plan; Senate Opposition Seen

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 27.—The administration considered today a call to congress to draft younger fighting blood—youths of 18 to 20—into the army.

There was no indication of how soon a decision might be made, but President Roosevelt disclosed at his press conference late yesterday that he would confer shortly with Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, on whether to ask for the necessary change in the Selective Service Act.

The present law exempts those under 20 from conscription. However, the 18-20 year category is to register June 30 under the nation's manpower inventory.

The 18 and 19-year-olds were subject to draft in closing weeks of the World war and the army today is in the midst of a drive for enlistments from those age groups.

Opposition Seen

Opposition to drafting of under-20 youths has arisen among senators. Senator Hill (D-Ala.) and Senator Shipstead (R-Minn.) are among those who have criticized the proposal.

The first draft in the World war, in 1917, was of men from 21 through 31. The second, in June 1918, was of the new 21-year-olds. The third, in September, 1918, on the eve of the great Meuse-Argonne offensive, took in the 18-20 age group and the 32-45 group. Of these under 21 and over 31 registrants, 120,157 were inducted before the armistice. Then America had a total of 2,810,286 drafted men in an army of 4,000,000.

For this war there is talk of an army of 7,000,000 or 8,000,000. Selective service registrations up to the outbreak of war brought enrollments of more than 17,000,000 men between 21 and 35. The first wartime registration, on Feb. 16,

Tries to "Eat Way" Into Army Air Corps

Salem Youth Gains Three Pounds, Needs Three
More by June 1

Eugene W. McCready of Salem, University of Cincinnati College of Engineering and Commerce sophomore, and co-operative business administration student, literally is trying to eat his way into the army air corps.

When air corps recruiting officers visited the campus May 18, McCready passed all intelligence and physical tests with flying colors except for the matter of weight. He was told that if he picked up six pounds by June 1, he would be accepted in the air corps reserve, deferred plan.

So young McCready, with the advice of Mrs. Emily Jones, assistant professor of nutrition in the University's School of Household Administration, is eating fattening foods.

Under her guidance, he has gained three pounds and hopes to take on another three in the remaining six days.

Just a half-inch under six feet tall, McCready weighed in at 137 pounds when examined. If plenty of determination and loads of carbohydrates can do the trick, he will up the scales at 143 pounds when he goes to Lexington, Ky., for his crucial June 1 test.

McCready celebrated his 20th birthday Monday by gaining two of his first three additional pounds.

County Seat Board Puts On 125 Names More In Re-classification

Names of men from the northern Columbiana county district, within the jurisdiction of the Salem draft board, who were accepted at Akron Monday for induction into the United States army, were announced today by local draft officials.

The call was one of the largest received to date by the local board. Despite this fact, the percentage of rejections was considerably more satisfactory than usual, with less than 20 men being turned down as prospective soldiers.

Meeting at Lisbon last night, the draft board for the central county territory reclassified a large number of "late marriage" cases, that is, those men who were married after Sept. 15, 1940.

Given a first division rating now, instead of their deferred classification, approximately 125 men were made available for call.

Chairman W. D. Morris of this board announced that future meetings of the Lisbon draft unit will be held on Monday evenings instead of Fridays.

Officials of all county draft board indicated they expected additional large calls in June and July.

Here are the names of the Salem district men accepted Monday for army service:

O. A. Naragon, president of the Salem High School Alumni association, and his committees are busy completing arrangements for the annual banquet and reunion Friday evening, June 5, in the Masonic temple.

The class of 1942 will be welcomed into the association and scholarship awards will be announced.

Author of two recent books, "Time Out To Live" and "The Flickering Torch," Tomlinson was born in Salem, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindley Tomlinson. He attended Salem High school, completed his preparatory education in George school at Newtown, Pa., and was graduated from Swarthmore college with honors in 1917.

Immediately following his graduation he enlisted in the navy and became a lieutenant, serving until the end of World War I. For many years thereafter he was sales manager and advertising manager of the Scott Paper Co. and also was a director of the company.

He gave up that work when his health failed a few years ago and after recovering he established an office in Philadelphia as public relations counselor.

SCHOOL BUSES HAUL WORKERS

Ohio Leads Other States
In Providing Defense
Transportation

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, May 27.—Numerous Ohio school buses, customarily idle during the summer vacation, now are transporting workers from their homes to war plants, public utilities commission officials said today.

The increasingly critical motor transportation problem in Ohio is being met temporarily, officials said, by issuing carrier certificates to school bus drivers "for the duration," extending regular carrier routes and by rearranging trip schedules to suit the needs of war industries.

Ohio is far ahead of the nation in meeting transportation problems," Commission Chairman George McConaughy said. "The Office of Defense Transportation has asked us to provide other states with information on our program and Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, has commended our efforts in aiding conversation of automobile carriers into buses for war workers."

Two former automobile carriers, their superstructure removed and equipped with seats and plywood covering, were placed in operation yesterday between Akron and Ravenna, PUC officials reported. The huge vehicles seat 65 persons each.

Since transportation became acute, the commission has granted

Announcement of the selections was made by R. L. Hutcheson, commander of Charles H. Carey post No. 56, American Legion, and Principal Beman G. Ludwig of the High school.

All of the boys have been active in school affairs. The Boys State, a 10-day school in citizenship, was transferred to Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware this year since the government has taken over the Ohio state fairgrounds at Columbus, scene of previous conclaves.

The Salem boys' attendance is sponsored by the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, the Legion post and the Manufacturers association.

WARFARE RENEWED
IN ARCTIC REGION

Nazis Renew Efforts To Bomb Murmansk, Concentrate Troops

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, May 27.—The Red army, fighting with its back to a river, has brought the German offensive in the Izyum-Barenkova sector to a standstill in the most important sector and has gained new ground in immediate counter-attacks, the Russians reported today.

Simultaneously the Russian forces about 80 miles northward continued their persistent pounding of the Germans who are clinging to new positions on the Khar-kov front.

While the deadly conflict in the Ukraine thus progressed after two furious weeks, the Arctic end of the 2,000-mile front also quickened to life.

Nazis Bomb Murmansk

The Germans renewed efforts to bomb Murmansk and fresh Nazi troops were concentrating in the northern sector.

Red Fleet, Soviet navy paper, said six German planes were downed and six damaged in air battles over the approaches to Murmansk and that land artillery of the Soviet northern fleet blasted 11 underground shelters and other quarters where Nazi soldiers were massing.

Red Star, the army paper, telling of the Ukrainainfighting, said the Russians were enlarging a pocket along the river bend where they stopped the Germans in the Izyum-Barenkova sector.

Pushing infantry, with artillery and tank support, have taken the slope of a hill dominating the sector and now are fighting at the gates of a village several miles from their starting point, Red Star said.

Two German counter-attacks have failed to halt this movement, it added.

In many sectors of the Khar-kov front tank encounters continue, with the Germans sending out groups of 20 to 30 machines and the Russians meeting them with equal numbers, so that the Germans are holding their positions only at "intense" losses, the army organ declared.

Nazi Wedge Drive Fails

A two-day battle has resulted in repulse of German efforts to drive a wedge into the Russian lines near Khar-kov, while in another nearby spot the Germans failed to recapture a village in a two-day combat with tanks, the report continued.

While these dispatches indicated that the Ukraine conflict raged on, others suggested that it was a breathing spell by comparison with the titanic struggle of the past two weeks in which the Russians pressed hard on Khar-kov and blocked German counter-bloes against their left flank.

GRADUATION

There remains nothing new to be said about graduation exercises now beginning—but all the things that have been said before are worth repeating again and they'll be repeated, no doubt, by the orators.

One wish is not too far out of order this year. It is that the orators will not try to make this graduation season seem different just because there is a war going on. It is different, to be sure, insofar as the war has made changes in the mechanical aspects of the process. But basically, it is the same.

Another group of young men and women, having received the best schooling their elders have been able to devise so far, will be handed their share of responsibility for the maintenance and development of civilized living. They will tackle the job as they've always tackled it, hopefully. Perhaps some of them will grow discouraged later, but not now.

Actually—cynics to the contrary notwithstanding—the prospect never has been brighter. There exists in the world today everything that men need to live happily together, lacking only the secret of how to do it without interruption. Technologically, the world never was so far advanced. Morally, the world rarely has been so seriously confused.

It is in the discovery of purpose that the greatest opportunity for progress lies—some purpose higher than the making of war every generation in a desperate attempt to obliterate with violence the obstacles to living that have not been removed by reason.

The new graduates deserve more than they have been given, and there is nothing kinder to say about them. Perhaps when they eventually become the old graduates and must think of something appropriate to say about the new graduates, they will be able to phrase their feelings better.

MEXICO THEN AND NOW

When Mexico's betrayal into a pro-German position in World War I is compared with its firm policy today, the fruits of good diplomacy are plain.

Mexico in 1942 cannot be betrayed by weak and desperate political leadership into action inimical to its own interests. Thanks to its own development in politics, economics and sociology—and thanks to whatever assistance it has received from the United States—it is now a relatively stable nation enjoying closely coordinated political leadership in behalf of all its people. Their welfare is tied closely to that of the anti-Axis bloc. Whatever whispers of Axis intrigues and plotting may have been heard, Mexico has taken its stand where it belongs—against the encroachment of European and Asiatic influences on North America. The United States, which has done perhaps more than any other nation to promote good neighborliness, has abundant reason now to be thankful for the good neighborliness of Mexico. Germany, apparently, saw no reason even to try to experiment with its divide-and-conquer formula this time; it deliberately provoked Mexico into a declaration of war.

The moral should not be neglected. Good neighbors are strong neighbors. Mexico in 1914, confused by revolution, was a pushover for German intrigue, which had only to corrupt certain corruptible leaders to have effect on the whole country. Mexico in 1942, confident in its own stability and strength, has become one of the rising powers of the western hemisphere—no longer a catspaw for the plotters who have dreamed for so many years of claiming the American continents for themselves.

THE BRITISH NEED MORE TACT

The purpose of United States soldiers in Ireland is a military secret. Repeated hints from official circles about using them for invasion of Europe may be unreliable, intended only to deceive.

Certainly when hints of Americans going into action on a second front in Europe are given by Englishmen they are less than tactful. One of the greatest concentrations of military manpower in history has been accomplished in England, in the potential invasion zone. The new American troops have relatively little numerical importance, besides being in Ireland.

With the exception of the disastrous action that came to a tragic conclusion at Dumbkirk, the British soldier guarding the homeland has been immobilized. Only the picked handfuls of men used in the "commando" raids have touched the continent since two years ago.

The second front that means most to the United States and to the United Nations right now because this country is the only member of the anti-Axis bloc that can do anything about it is Asia. Germany already is being hit where it hurts from Asia. The job being done by Russia is a thousand times more important now to the United States than another land-front in Europe which, if opened, should be opened by the British army already on the scene.

WAR BATTING FOR WPA

The President's reduced estimate on WPA needs for the next budget year, due to effect of the war effort, confirms a claim that used to be made during the depression. In a nice way, of course, critics used to snarl that the reason WPA couldn't rout the depression was because it was too cheap.

In its first six years, nevertheless, WPA activities cost $9,589,000,000 in federal funds, plus another $2,341,000,000 in other funds from proect sponsors—close to 12 billion dollars. That was a lot of money during the lean years. Even with the waste and inefficiency that went with its operations WPA accomplished a lot of results. But it did not restore prosperity.

That had to wait on the biggest job program ever put into effect, the super-WPA known as WAR. Only then could government and critics of government and taxpayers in general spend 12 billions with no more reluctance than they felt during the depression over the annual WPA appropriation. Only then was the lid off—with no expense too great—no project too ambitious.

Sen. LaFollette used to tell the senate that if the United States would appropriate some fantastic number of billions for unemployment relief the depression would dissolve like magic. In 1942, the depression has dissolved. WPA has dwindled to a shadow. Jobs are hunting men again. Billions are being spent like millions.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, May 28

ACCORDING to the lunar as well as mutual aspects bearing rule on the affairs of this day there may not be any startling developments or worthwhile accomplishments as far as workaday engagements are concerned. Business and finance and credits have a sinister influence, with fraud, subterfuge and imposture possible unless much prudence and caution be exercised. The young, romantic and pleasure-loving may be active and resourceful.

Those whose birthday it is may find their best success and happiness in realms of pleasure, the artistic or emotional life rather than business or finance, which have a menace of fraud, duplicity, imposture or other disappointing or intriguing experience. There may be much enterprise and progress in youthful aspirations.

A child born on this day should have much ability in a refined and cultural way, and may find pleasure in its artistic, social or romantic attachments.

Because Work Is Keynote of Nation's Efforts Now

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WORK IS THE keynote of the nation's thought and effort at the present time. The physiologist has certain definitions about the capacity of the human body for work.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

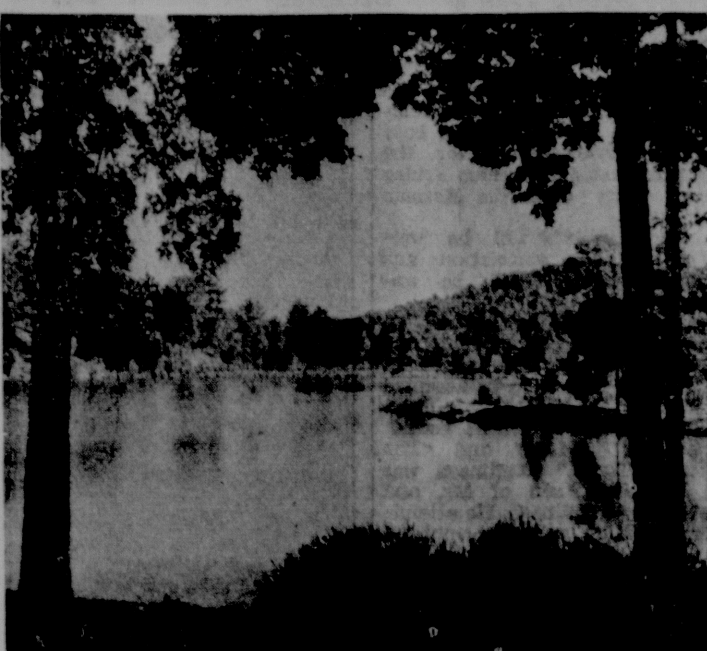

and the different kinds of work it can do. An understanding of these might help to mitigate some of the arguments that are being bandied back and forth.

The physicist says that work is done when a force moves a mass against resistance, when one form of energy is transformed into another. The human muscular system is essentially no different from any other machine in that it transforms one form of energy into work. It is different in that it is hooked up with the nervous system which the machine does not have and which causes it to show fatigue in a certain length of time.

Muscular Work
The physiologist distinguishes three kinds of muscular work: Maximal, heavy and moderate. Maximal muscular work cannot be maintained continuously. It is defined as the amount of work which yields an average metabolic rate of eight or more times the basal metabolic rate. That is to say about 12,000 calories. Maximal muscular work can be done for a short period of time, as in very vigorous sports, but need for rest periods is imperative. It is rarely required, however, in industry.

Heavy work is defined as the amount which yields from three to eight times the basal metabolic rate. It has been suggested that this can be maintained for eight hours. This includes the heavy manual jobs in agriculture, building trades, mining, heavy industry and forced marches with a heavy load. The person performing heavy work has a reduced margin of safety in regard to heat dissipation and heart action.

Mrs. H. C.:—My family have the habit of eating oranges before going to bed at night. Friends have told me that "Oranges are golden in the morning but lead at night." Please advise me if this is true. Answer: You tell your friends to lay off the epigrams and get down to physiology. Oranges are all right morning and night.

KEY WEST CAUGHT IN BIG WAR BOOM

Island Is Repossessed By Navy As Gibraltar of Mexican Gulf

KEY WEST, Fla.—The war boom has hit Key West like a tropical hurricane and lifted this southernmost city of the United States from the doldrums of decay.

The navy, which abandoned Key West when the world was talking disarmament and everlasting peace, has repossessed this Gibraltar of the Gulf of Mexico, given it a new coat of paint and, in a period of little more than a year, put some $12,000,000 in its collective pocket.

Approximately 20,000 persons, not counting army and navy personnel, are crowded upon this island of four square miles. Small apartments rented for $100 a month and before rent-control was ordered, you could find a vacancy. Food and clothing have soared in price.

A new water pipeline in 1936 building permits issued here totaled $65,000. Last year they jumped to $576,000. Today barracks, mess halls and apartment houses are springing up almost overnight.

To meet the increased population's demand on the city's meager water supply, 1,500 workers are working around the clock laying a $3,500,000 pipeline through which fresh water will be brought to Key West.

In 1935 Key West was dependent upon government relief. With the clear industry moved to Tampa and rum-running—once a profitable enterprise—ended, the population dwindled to 12,400.

A few tourists—drawn by the city's quaintness—visited Key West, but not in sufficient numbers to provide an income for the native "conchs." Buildings were standing empty and Key West had much the appearance of a "ghost town."

Today its streets are teeming with thousands of service men and civilian workers. Bicycles—still the principal mode of transportation—line its sidewalks, while inside its jammed stores and restaurants, shoppers stand in line for service.

Only 90 miles from the northern coast of Cuba, Spanish is spoken in Key West almost as much as English. Cuban sandwiches, Spanish dinners and "turtleburgers" are featured on every menu.

Bars are lined three deep from dusk to dawn, and many never close their doors. Telephone and telegraph facilities are so overtaxed it sometimes requires several hours to complete a call or dispatch a message.

Now the headquarters for the seventh naval district, this historical city overnight has become one of Florida's most important points. Key Westers already have forgotten the lean years past. Key West is at war.

CLASSROOM WORK MAY BE DULL NOW

CLEVELAND, May 27—There's nothing like a quick trans-Atlantic plane ride, professor, to add zest to one's college training.

Take the case of John Sleasman, 22, a junior in Penn college, where students may alternate between classroom study and experience on the job.

He has been getting his experience work at an Ohio war plant. "The boss" told him one morning to go home and get a day's supply of clothing and hustle back.

"When I came back I hopped into a waiting plane loaded with shipments," he said. "I didn't know where we were going until after the plane took off."

It turned out to be England. Sleasman said he slept in an electrically heated flying suit, lying across packing boxes. His food, and that of the plane crew, came from thermos apparatus.

"I don't know where we landed in England," he related. "I helped set up the equipment in the shipment and in eight hours was on another plane, returning home. I slept strapped to the floor."

Classroom lectures are apt to seem a bit dull, professor, after that.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Betty Ruth Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Lewis of Jennings ave., and Aviation Cadet Donald C. Hammell, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hammell of E. Third st., was made Tuesday evening when Miss Lewis entertained members of the Bide-a-Wee club and guests at her home.

The evening was spent informally, with games and guessing contests.

A two-course lunch was served at a table appropriately decorated with patriotic appointments, the color scheme being red, white and blue. A large silver airplane was suspended over the table, with ribbons leading to miniature airplanes of red and silver, which were individual favors with the name of the engaged couple printed on the heart-shaped propeller.

The centerpiece of the table was a bouquet of spring flowers in a crystal bowl, on each side of which were double candelabra with red tapers. Individual ice cream molds, decorated with wings, was a feature of the lunch, which was served by the mother of the bride-elect, assisted by her sisters, Mrs. J. Ben Cope and Miss Nancy Lewis.

Miss Lewis is a graduate of Salem High school and is employed as a stenographer at the Mullins Corp. Cadet Hammell is a graduate of Salem High school and of Ohio university and is now stationed at Ellington Field, Texas, where he is receiving navigation training.

5,000 Buses Listed

Officials estimated that Ohio had some 5,000 school buses, about half of which are owned by boards of education. The others are privately owned and drivers are turning to bus line operations as a means of ready revenue.

Blake, who directed transportation at Camp Lee, Va., during the first World war, explained that certificates granted were for the duration and that such drivers could not return to hauling school pupils until after the war. He conceded that the problem of pupil transportation might prove trying next fall if many school buses shifted to carrying war workers.

School bus drivers converting to war worker carriers will be eligible for rationed tires, Blake said. He added that certifications were contingent upon proper insurance for passengers and a $230 a year public utility tax on 30-passenger buses starting July 1.

16 certificates for operation of new lines, all for school bus type vehicles and 12 regular carriers have received permission to extend service to points previously without public transportation. PUC officials reported. Fifteen inquiries were received last week and others are being received daily.

Most of the changes were authorized for the northeastern district and the Columbus, Dayton, Cincinnati, Lima and Toledo areas. An application to extend regular carrier service to a Marion war plant also is on file.

"As tire rationing tightens, the transportation problem may become very serious," said William Blake of Cleveland, assistant superintendent of rates and service. "Unless we can get school buses in operation, we may be up against it."

CONGRESS CALLS RUBBER EXPERTS

No Tires For Civilians Until 1944, At Least, Is Outlook

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Put on notice that nationwide gasoline rationing may be the next step in the rubber conservation program, the house interstate commerce committee called in government rubber experts today for an explanation of the situation and what is being done to meet it.

Representatives of the army, the commerce department and other agencies dealing with rubber were requested by Chairman Lea (D-Calif.) to tell how essential needs were being met and would be met in the future. The main purpose of the investigation, he said, was to keep the public informed.

Official predictions say there will be no new tires for civilian use until 1944 at least, and probably not until 1945. However, officials continue to hope for quick development of rubber substitutes to relieve the famine.

President Roosevelt told his press conference yesterday it was necessary to save rubber by methods still to be decided on, but he expressed hope that certain tire substitutes would be available before all the tires now on the road wear out. He said he thought the civilian transportation situation would be worked out satisfactorily.

Answering a question on whether anything was being done to develop a supply of synthetic rubber for non-military use, the President spoke of the need for buses to take workmen to and from war industry plants and said work was in progress on two or three kinds of tires which required no rubber. He said that if people got them and drove 25 to 30 miles an hour they could get to town all right.

The house interstate commerce committee heard Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum coordinator, indicate yesterday that nationwide gasoline rationing might have to be resorted to as a means of compelling motorists to save their tires. Davies emphasized that while the gasoline shortage existed only in the east and to a lesser extent in the northwest, the rubber shortage was nationwide.

Astronomical computations show that the planet Pluto, discovered in 1930, is 4,400 million miles from the earth—about 30 times further away than Mercury.

It takes the light of the sun a little over eight minutes to travel 92,000,000 miles to the earth.

TOJO THREATENS ANZAC INVASION

Premier's Vocal Blast Is Seen As "Fishing Expedition"

(By Associated Press)
Japan's Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo sounded a new threat to Australia today, asserting boastfully that "the naval forces in defense of Australia have disappeared, with nothing standing now to defend that country before the onslaught of the imperial Japanese forces."

Evidently a "fishing expedition" in quest of information, Gen. Tojo's repetition of Japan's claim of victory in the Coral sea battle—discredited by allied accounts—was accompanied by a renewed pledge of Japanese support for the Axis.

"Japan will do her utmost to contribute her share as the partner of Germany and Italy," he told the Japanese parliament, in the presence of Emperor Hirohito.

No Russian Threat
But, as if to dispel the idea that Japan would help Germany by attacking Russia, Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo carefully explained: "Relations between Japan and the Soviet Union have undergone no change even after the outbreak of war in greater East Asia."

"Enemy countries will, I presume, intensify their efforts to alienate Japan and the Soviet Union, but there is no chance for such intrigues to bear fruit so long as the Soviet Union firmly maintains the attitude mentioned."

In addition to his threat against Australia, Gen. Tojo warned India that "as long as British and American troops remain in India, Japan is inflexibly determined to annihilate them."

He said Australia was "now helplessly expecting Japan's attack after the battle in the Coral sea wiped away naval units put up for the defense of Australia."

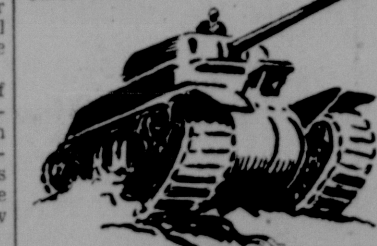

While Japan's war leaders thus boasted of future conquests, Allied fighting men scored new successes against the invaders on far-flung land and sky fronts.

Chiang Starts Offensive
On China's east coast, in the critical Chekiang province theater, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies were reported to have started an offensive in an attempt to hamstring Japanese columns storming at the gates of Kinkwa, Chekiang provisional capital.

Chinese dispatches said Gen. Chiang's troops were attacking in the Hangchow-Kashling-Wuhsing sector 100 miles below Shanghai, behind the bases from which the Japanese drive against Kinkwa was launched.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS
These huge 60-ton heavy tanks cost $120,000, and America's automotive and locomotive plants are turning them out on a never-ending assembly line. Our army uses light tanks, weighing 14 tons, and medium tanks of 28 tons also, but we favor the medium tank over the other two.

These heavy tanks are needed for certain phases of modern warfare, and with their thick armor and heavy-gauge guns they are almost unstoppable. They are considered superior in gun power, in maneuverability and in the power of their huge tractor motors to Axis tanks. Americans everywhere are helping to pay for these monsters of war through their purchase of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.

GERMANS LAUNCH NEW LIBYAN MOVE

Axis Tank Columns and Infantry Move Toward British Forces

LONDON, May 27.—The Germans in North Africa have started "an offensive of some sort" but it is too early to judge its size, a military commentator declared today as Axis tank columns and infantry moved eastward toward the main British positions, which have been newly strengthened with American-made cruiser tanks.

Diplomatic sources said there were increasing signs that the Axis was mounting a formidable land and naval move in the Mediterranean area.

The move in Libya was the first reported in any strength since Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel made a tentative thrust with three columns April 8. Finding the British positions much stronger than expected, the Germans then held their positions while awaiting supplies and reinforcements ferried across the Mediterranean under cover of air attacks on Malta.

Rommel was estimated to have about 125,000 German and Italian troops, including three armored divisions, when he last moved forward.

During the recent lull the British have poured in reinforcements equal to those Rommel has obtained, and have been bolstered by ar-more divisions equipped with factory-new 28-ton American tanks, and the British armored divisions now are believed to be superior in armor, firepower and range.

Involved in the general Mediterranean prospects, diplomatic quarters said, were the massing of 300,000 Italian troops along the French border, Pierre Laval's discussions with French naval leaders, and a steady flow of supplies to Rommel as a result of Malta's recently-decreased usefulness as an air base.

Reports from Turkey added that in mid-day six infantry divisions had been transferred from Yugoslavia to Greece and the Aegean islands.

CRIME AT CASTAWAY by EDITH BRISTOL

SYNOPSIS

The moment Gerry Lane stepped over the threshold of "Castaway" to become secretary to Walter Gregg, wealthy contractor, she had a feeling of foreboding. It was obvious her employer feared someone or something. Was it Worth Duffee with whom he had been in litigation and who had sent Gerry's car hurtling over a cliff, seriously injuring him? The latter won a damage suit now on appeal, and Duffee is trying to settle out of court. Or did it have something to do with the antagonism which existed in his home? Estelle Gregg's wife, had no love for Martha's sister, who managed the household. Estelle also resented the fact that Pauline Dawson, Gregg's eccentric first wife, was staying at the contractor's cottage in nearby Hidden Cove. Sydney Loftus, Estelle's son, was contemptuous of Harry Craven, the suave manager of the Gregg Construction Company, and Lance Gregg, Walter's nephew, who gave up college to assist his uncle following the accident. Throughout was a feeling of distrust and watchful waiting. Gregg warns Gerry to keep his files locked. Her first day at Castaway, while Gerry was working on the Gallina Dam rescue, the company's latest project, Florabelle Hunt, Pauline's maid, slips into the study purportedly with a message for Gregg. When Gerry goes to summon Martha, the woman disappears with a picture of Gregg which hung over the fireplace. Martha bellies the incident, asks Gerry not to mention it to anyone, and replaces the photo with a duplicate. That night, Estelle asks Gerry for Gregg, under the pretense of trying to make things easier for the convalescing contractor. When she refuses, he warns her against talking. Next day, Gerry overhears Lance warn his uncle, "If you don't act soon there'll be death to pay." Late that night, she hears a car backfire and confused voices.

CHAPTER EIGHT

I knew Dr. Henry was a physician the instant I saw him. The keen, kindly eyes behind his shell-rimmed glasses. The clipped gray beard. The impersonal, detached politeness as early next morning, he met me at the ranch house door. "You're Mr. Gregg's secretary, aren't you?"

"Yes, I'm Miss Lane."

"I'm Dr. Henry. I have bad news for you." Behind his courtesy as he held open the door for me was something ominous and threatening. "I hope that you can stand a shock."

Now it was coming. Suddenly I had the feeling that I had known this all along. That something evil and sinister had hovered over me—over all of us—since yesterday's storm broke, and now in this blazing bright morning we must face it. I think I clutched at the back of one of the tall chairs in the hall.

"What is it, doctor?"

"Mr. Gregg. There's been an—"

"Oh, the poor man!" I blurted. "Has he been hurt again?"

"Not hurt, Miss Lane. He's dead."

I suppose I must have gasped. I knew I sat down, limp and weak, on the chair while the doctor went on.

Miss Gregg asked me to tell you she would like to have you come to her sitting room—but not until you finish your breakfast. And, of course, there will be some routine questions for you to answer to the authorities."

The authorities! Then, and for the first time, it flashed across my mind that this death wasn't an ordinary death. It was worse. Ever since I came I had been sure that my employer was frightened, worried about something I could not name. Now, after so much pain, he must have made up his mind to end the fear and suffering. All I could find to say was, "How terrible!"

I tried to force myself to eat the breakfast Lsu served me, but such a jumble of disconnected thoughts raced through my mind.... Miss Baldwin's hints.... the furtive woman in the study.... yesterday's broken snatches of angry conversation that drifted through the walls.... and last, with dreadful clearness, the words that still rang horribly in my ears.... "If you don't act.... it may mean death!"

The few crumbs of toast I swallowed made me choke and the coffee I gulped was flat and tasteless. Then, after thinking about everybody else at Castaway, I got around to thinking about Gerry Lane. Here I was, again, back at the same point as when I sat in the employment agency. There'd be a week's salary, of course, maybe more. But if I'd been the kind that breaks down and sobs, I might have broken down and sobbed right then and there in the breakfast room, forgetting the light of Walter Gregg and remembering how it was going to affect me. The grim need of hunting a job all over again. The disheartening ordeal of looking for work—it was time to square my shoulders. And I did, before starting to Miss Gregg's sitting room.

Right now would be as good a time as any to sketch the relationship of the rooms at Castaway to one another—since they were of importance to the events taking place in the ranch house. Therefore I'd better give a rough idea of the floor plan of the rambling, Spanish style house. It is wide and spacious, with its main section across the back of the hollow square, but two stories high, fronting the flower filled patio.

In the main, center section, along the ocean side of the square, were the entrance hall, the huge living room, dining room and breakfast rooms, with the kitchen and servants' quarters extending beyond. The bedrooms are in the upper story.

The east and west wings formed the other sides of the open court. The east wing, already familiar to me, was composed of Mr. Gregg's study—nearest the main section—then, his bath and dressing rooms, and at the end of the wing his bedroom. The passage ran along the patio side.

Opposite, across the patio, Miss Gregg's suite of rooms occupied the west wing, her sitting room directly in line with her brother's study, her bedroom at the end of the wing, opposite his, the width of the broad court between them.

I knocked at the door of Miss Gregg's sitting room and waited, prepared for grief and tears, for I knew the affection linking the twin brother and sister.

But there were no tears.

Martha Gregg called, "Come in" and I entered. She stood beside the French windows, the spaniels crouched at her feet, their amber eyes fixed on her set face. She looked more like a Diego Rivera painting than before, I thought, so still, so rigid, so unutterably self-possessed.

I groped awkwardly for the right words to tell her of my sympathy and managed to be only stumbling and incoherent. She helped me out. "I know, Miss Lane, I understand. I can't talk, quite yet, about my brother. I must be ready to talk about so many other things.... so many things will have to be done.... and I must be the one to do them.... I'll need your help."

"Please let me do anything I can—I began."

"That's why I sent for you," Martha spoke under strain, holding herself tense, keeping her voice level, choosing her words with care. "I'd like to engage you, right now, to work for me. Your work for my brother is over. But just so there'll be no question about your place here, I'm offering you a job as my secretary. Will you take it?"

I assured her I'd be glad to stay, as long as she needed me, to do whatever she wanted done. A flood of relief swept over me that my own immediate problem was so quickly settled.

"There'll be nothing you can do yet—no telegrams nor letters until Dr. Henry and the sheriff finish talking with us. If you'd rather not work in my brother's study, I'll have your things brought in here."

I marveled then—and it was only the first of a long series of wonderments—that in the face of her own grief Martha Gregg could think so calmly and considerably of the feelings of other people.

A sharp knock at the sitting room door broke my reverie. Miss Gregg called, "Come in," and I opened the door. On the threshold with the doctor was a heavy, solid man, with massive shoulders and leathery face, with deep-set blue eyes, like the eyes of sailors, little lines, running from the corners under black brows. His hair was tinged with gray at the temples and he held a wide-brimmed felt hat in his brown hand.

"Come in, Nathan," Martha Gregg greeted him. "This is Miss Lane. She was Walter's secretary—now she's going to stay on to help me. Dr. Henry, you met her, I think?"

The doctor bowed. Nathan—I knew he must be Sheriff Allen—looked me over with one quick and searching glance. Then his attention turned back again to Miss Gregg and she moved from her post by the window and came toward him with eager, questioning eyes.

"Well, Nathan?" she almost whispered.

If I had always entertained the idea that officers of the law must be harsh and rough, I changed by mind that instant when Sheriff Nathan Allen spoke to Martha Gregg. His voice was gentle and low, his manner tender as a mother's—

"Look, Martha, there's something the doctor and I have got to tell you—hang on to yourself."

"You've known me all my life. You needn't be afraid to tell me whatever has to be said. What is it?"

"Martha"—Allen took both of her brown hands, with their heavy bracelets, in his own huge grasp—"Martha, your brother didn't kill himself."

"He didn't—what—"

"He didn't kill himself. Walter was murdered!"

For a moment I was sure that Martha Gregg was going to crack under the shock of the sheriff's words. Dr. Henry must have thought so, too, for he quickly mixed up a few drops of something aromatic in a glass of water and stood over her while she drank the last drop of the cloudy liquid.

Martha handed the empty glass back to me before anybody spoke. Then she said, "How—how do you know?"

"No human being could have shot himself the way Walter was shot—from clear across the room. And there was no gun."

Martha's face stiffened. Her dark, strong face, so like her brother's. She gripped the arms of her chair. "Walter had enemies," she said thoughtfully. "No man can rise in the world as Walter rose without making enemies. You'll find the person who did this, Nathan?"

"We will, Martha. Again the gentleness of this big man surprised me. We'll find out every possible angle, we'll find out who had a motive to kill Walter—or who thought he had, which is more likely—and who had the opportunity."

Dr. Henry has telephoned to Lance and Craven over at Gallina and they should be here any minute now. Estelle and that son of hers are on their way down from the city. Martha, who stands to benefit the most by this death?"

Her answer was instantaneous. "If you mean money, I do."

"You? What about Estelle?" It was plain that Nathan Allen, like Dr. Henry, as old and trusted friends of this stricken household, knew much of the domestic situation—but not all.

"Estelle's share will be all carefully tied up in a trust fund—Walter has explained that to me."

"Does she know that?"

"I don't know. But, I know it."

"And you?" Allen asked.

"Castaway is to come to me—clear."

Allen was silent a minute, then went on deliberately: "I'm not going into this business of motive right now. I want to question all those who were here in the house last night, and I'll take the servants' answers before the others get here. I wish I had my deputy here to take their answers down in shorthand," he added. "We'll find who did it, never fear, Martha." He almost snapped the last statement.

Then I spoke. "I can take down your questions and answers," I volunteered.

"Citizen?" he asked.

I nodded.

"Have you lived in the state one year?"

"Hum—" Allen considered me a minute, frowned and nodded.

"You'll do. And just to make everything regular, I'll swear you in as a deputy."

So that's how I, a stenographer who had never stepped foot in a courtroom, nor heard a word of testimony, came to find myself, three minutes later, a deputy sheriff of Gallina County—with no badge other than my pencil and notebook.

Flash Floods Cause Many Deaths in Pennsylvania

Family evacuated by rowboat in Reading, Pa.

Series of flash floods in eastern Pennsylvania have taken a death toll of more than 35 persons and caused property damage in excess of $10,000,000. Hardest hit community was Honesdale, where a roaring wall of water from a mountain stream literally split the town in half. At Reading, many families were forced to evacuate their homes when the Schuylkill river overflowed its banks, causing the worst flood since 1902.

SELF-CLEANING HOUSE PAINT developed by DUPONT

Starts brilliantly WHITE

Stays WHITE because it's "Self-Cleaning"

Is easy and fast to apply—has excellent hiding quality

Lasting beauty and protection

DUPONT House Paint keeps white houses white, because this brilliantly white paint is "self-cleaning." It forms a tough, durable film which protects the surface from rust, rot, or decay. Like all paints, it collects dirt on exposure to the elements. As time goes on, however, a fine white powder forms on the surface of this new paint. This powder is washed away by heavy rains, carrying the dirt with it and exposing a fresh white surface. This self-cleaning process starts after a few months of exposure under normal conditions of weather, but may be delayed under unusual dirt-collecting conditions such as found in sooty industrial areas. Because the "self-cleaning" process is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected.

Available in light COLORS, too!

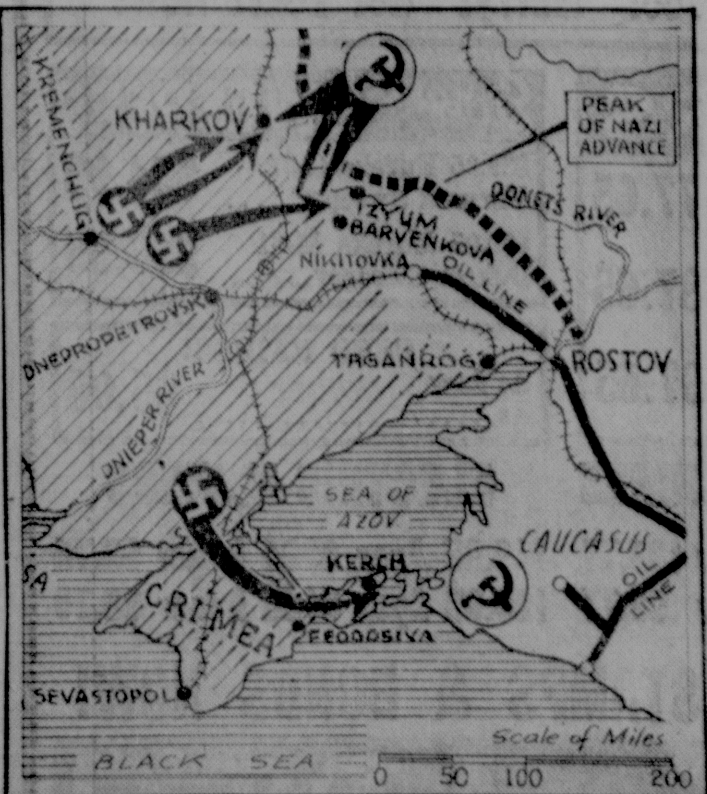

The new Du Pont Tru-Tint formula gives you lovely light colors with the same super-values results. Like the white paint, these colors are "self-cleaning." Du Pont House Paint costs no more than other good paints... is more economical because it needs fewer repaintings. Next time you paint, ask your painter to use Du Pont House Paint!

Army's Heavy Hitters Lined Up at Fort Bragg

That head above may be a bit misleading for we're not talking about the Army's baseball team. The heavy hitters are 155-mm. guns lined up at Fort Bragg, N. C., for inspection by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, a recent visitor to the base.

Power Shortage May Prompt Additional U. S. Sacrifices

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(Wide World)—If you have a little list of "sacrifices I made to help the war," you might write in it, in pencil, the word "power." Before the year is out, Americans scattered areas will be learning, going without it, the basic role electricity in the life of a modern community.

The little savings in the home are voluntary. People will be asked to cut down on the hot water heater, the vacuum cleaner, the car, to keep home cooking and dining at a minimum—especially during those critical "peak load" times from five to eight or nine at night.

Signs Will Black Out
In public places, power shortages will force themselves on your attention— theater marquees will be dark, street cars may run unattended, show-windows will be blacked-out, great-white-way billboards will dim and night sports will disappear.

Any ingenious businessman who kept a non-essential non-war item in operation despite prior-conversion orders, manpower and all may find power rationing the final, killing blow.

With the sun's cooperation in lighting the land, and enough rain to keep the hydro-electric rivers flowing through the dams, we'll get through the summer without extra fuss over power.

The fall and winter are another story. Late summer often brings a season that cuts down the output of water-power plants. The fall will bring hundreds of new or converted industrial plants into full war production, many on a 24-hour, seven-day basis. Of course, the days lengthen and the weather is still, and housewives start hitting the lamps before dinner and cooking good, big, hot meals.

On Regional Basis
If power runs short in the months to come, don't expect any national panacea. Power people say shortages will develop on a regional basis, and the remedies will vary from place to place.

As a precaution, power lines already are cutting across the churning grounds between government-ownership and private-ownership, linking together both kinds of power for a single delivery to war-centers in areas like the Pacific northwest, the southeast and the southwest.

When power runs short in places, these "pool" wires connecting one power system with another will maintain the flow of electricity into necessary war plants.

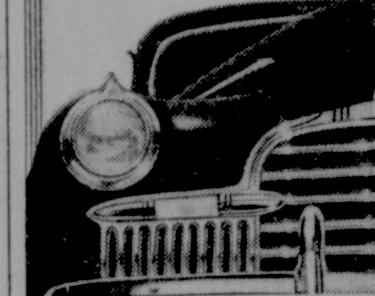

Other policies will depend on the locality. In great residential centers such as New York city, large savings of power could be made through the householders' corporation.

In heavily industrial centers, where residence is a secondary item, savings may require the cutting down of service to some non-war industrial and commercial users, and might even come to rationing among war plants.

Harry S. Ray

In 1934 Harry S. Ray, a former captain of the Russian Imperial Army, sent blueprints of a tank-trailer to the German war office after failing to get the U. S. government interested in his invention. Ray says the Germans never returned the prints to him and apparently have used them to build the tank-trailers seen on the Russian front. Ray holds a copy of the blueprints in Los Angeles.

they will be reasonably safe from a draft call in 1942. This assurance was given by Hershey Monday an address to members of the National forum at Cambridge, Ma.
The selective service director said there was a sufficient pool of ma-power available to fill this gap needs without dipping into a 3-A's—those with dependents.

The senate military commitsistant with wives or children, and wives and children, and those who purely financial dependents at amounts payable under proposition allotments of consen-sated.

The committee held that the two groups should not be touch-until all 1-A men have been ducted.

The Problems Of Rationing

Administrator Discusses Methods and Reasons, Calling for Co-operation of Public

BY JOHN T. BURNS

To date the rationing boards have not received much information in connection with the general maximum price regulations, but in advance of complete information a number of questions may be answered. Under Section 13 of this regulation every person offering for sale a cost-of-living commodity at retail is required to file with the war price and rationing board in his community on or before June 1, 1942, a statement showing his maximum price for each such commodity, together with an appropriate description identifying the commodity.

Up to the present time no instructions regarding the form of this statement have been issued although such instructions are now in course of preparation. The boards have been instructed to accept any such statement that may be filed and hold them for further orders.

Q. Why was the general maximum price regulation issued?
A. The regulation is a war measure issued to stop further increases in the cost of living and in other prices.

Q. Why have prices been rising?
A. Fighting the war requires huge expenditures for armaments and turns thousands of plants from producing civilian goods to producing war goods. This results in increased wage payments but smaller production of civilian goods. Thus demand is rising while supply is declining. The result is higher prices.

Q. What prices are covered by the regulation?
A. Nearly all prices charged by retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers, and producers of raw materials. The only important cost-of-living exclusions are certain food products.

Q. What are the ceiling prices?
A. In general, the highest charged during March, 1942, by each individual seller.

Q. When does the ceiling become effective?
A. 1. For goods sold at retail, the ceilings apply on May 18, 1942.

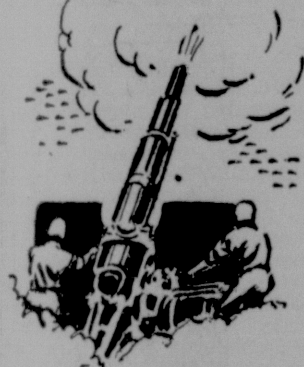

2. For services at retail, that is, rendered to the ultimate consumer, the ceiling applies on July 1, 1942.

3. For sales by manufacturers, producers and wholesalers, and services rendered to an industrial consumer, the ceiling applies on May 11, 1942.

Q. Will the ceiling prices be the same at every store for the same article?
A. No. In general, the ceiling is the highest price at which each store sold an article during

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 75-millimeter gun is a divisional weapon used by the Artillery as an anti-tank gun. It has been replaced to some extent by the more modern "105", known as the heaviest of divisional weapons. The 75-mm gun costs $12,000 and has been converted by our Ordnance into a "blaster" twice as efficient as in the first World War.

This gun gets maximum power for minimum weight and cost, and the American people are providing the finance through the purchase of War Bonds. If you do your share and invest 10 per cent of your income in War Bonds, adequate supply of this efficient gun can be assured our fighting forces. Buy War Bonds every pay day.

Here's the Liquid Prize Hitler Seeks in Russia

On a hill at Baku a Russian worker points out part of the derrick-studded fields that oil-hungry Germany is trying to reach in her current drive on the Kerch Peninsula. The fields shown above, and many others in the Caucasus, keep the Russian war machines going at full speed. Capture of such a prize would insure Hitler's planes and tanks an indefinite supply of sorely-needed fuel.

March. The maximum price will vary from store to store just as prices varied from store to store during March.

Q. Can prices lower than the ceiling be charged?
A. Yes, they can go as low as the seller wishes. But they cannot go one cent above the ceiling. Remember that the purpose of this action is to stop the rise in prices.

Q. What action has been taken regarding rents?
A. OPA has designated 323 groups of communities as "defense-rental areas" and has taken the first steps to check the rise in housing rents in these areas.

Enough steel goes into bottle caps each year to make at least 30 "ugly duckling" freighters.

Local passenger traffic on public carriers is expected to increase 20 per cent this year over 1941 because of increased employment, construction of new war plants, and the tire shortage.

Washington Calls Again!

Retailers and their customers frequently have been called upon to change established habits to help win the war. All have responded to every call—promptly, willingly, patriotically.

Now the nation is called upon to revise credit practices in compliance with governmental order (Regulation "W"), already in effect.

Salem charge customers will experience little inconvenience in meeting Uncle Sam's credit terms. You have followed for years a conservative system recommended by your stores. Now war economy finds you prepared.

Salem stores render bills on or about the first of each month, payable by the tenth. Regulation "W" does not change this. It does say, however, that no further credit may be extended to the few who fail to pay by the tenth of the second calendar month following the calendar month in which purchases are made.

Prompt payment of your accounts will meet government requirements and help win the war

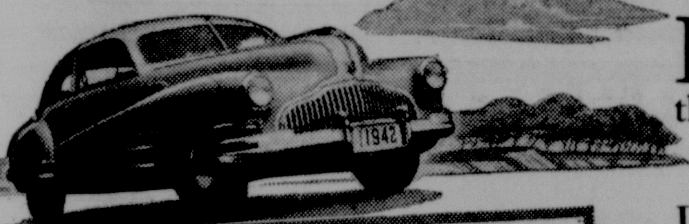

As for Budget Accounts: On most items carried by member stores, down payment must be at least 1-3 of the purchase price. Not more than 12 months, in some instances less, can be allowed for the balance. Payments must be at least $5 per month or $1.25 per week.

Questions arising in the minds of credit customers should be discussed personally with store credit departments. They are prepared to assist you in every possible manner.

Really NEED a New Car? Liberalized rules may let you get one Who is Eligible to Buy a New Car?

There are seven major classifications for persons eligible to buy new cars under basic rationing rules.

These include persons engaged in the production of war materials or in the prosecution of the war, directly or indirectly; physicians, nurses, clergymen, veterinarians; car-owners engaged in public service, such as fire departments, public health, highway maintenance, etc.; owners of taxicabs and other means of transportation; farmers; newspaper wholesalers; and traveling salesmen in certain fields.

Your Buick dealer will be very glad to help you determine whether you come under the rules of eligibility. He also will be glad to help you fill the proper applications.

Don't guess about your eligibility—see your Buick dealer now and make sure.

If your work is connected directly or indirectly with the prosecution of the war, you may be eligible to buy a new car—right now.

Under newly liberalized rationing rules it is easier than most people think to replace cars now in use with brand-new, long-lived, gas-thrifty 1942 Buicks.

Maybe you can wash out worries about tire-life by starting afresh with a complete new set—tires that will last longer, if they're on a Buick, because new Broadrim wheels both ease the ride and lengthen tire-life.

Remember, the 1942 models your Buick dealer now has ready for immediate delivery were built to serve you through the duration and beyond.

They are wartime tough, durable beauties built to last, built to go a long, long way with a minimum of upkeep.

So if you're eligible, you may be money ahead getting a new Buick now rather than trying to make an old car "do."

Why not drop in, talk it over and see if the new liberalized rules do not entitle you to a new automobile now?

If you're eligible for a new car—Better Buy Buick!

Recreation Beats Pottery, 10-3, To Take Softball Leadership

ZINES HURLS FOUR HITTER; JACKSONS LOSE TO PHALANX

Huffer, Greenisen Lead Recs In Convincing 10-3 Triumph

Big Johnny Zines came through with a four hitter and a 10-3 win over the Salem China last night at Centennial park to give the Recreation team undisputed possession of first place in the city's softball race. The win was the fourth in a row for the Rambling Recs and the loss the first of the year for the Pottery workers.

The Chinas were without their ace fliker, Kenny Brudery, last night, and Les Knepp, gangling first sacker, took the mound. He was touched for nine hits by the Recreation sluggers but rationed them out when the bases were well occupied.

Of the four safeties allowed by the speedy Zines, three were extra blows. "Dumps" Balesky collected a triple and a single to take individual batting honors while Knepp cracked out a home run in the fifth. "Skip" Greenisen and Charley Huffer each blasted out two hits to pace the Recs. Herb Brown smashed a homer to end the cause. The Recreation scored three runs in the first off Knepp and added two more in the fourth. These runs were all that were needed but four in the fifth and another in the sixth "iced" the verdict. The Chinas scored two in the fourth and one more in the fifth.

In the second game, the Phalanx team capped its first decision of the campaign by backing up a four hit pitching job by Shepard with a six hit attack, good for three runs, to blank Jacksons, 3-0. Bob "Buck" Rutledge and Mike Oana each pounded out two hits to pace the fraternity men while "Toots" Hrvatin collected a like number to lead the losers.

The Phalanx turned in a rarity as they played one of the few errorless games of the season thus far to support Shepard's fine work on the mound. The Jacksons' defense made two misplays but turned in some nice work throughout the game.

The Phalanx clinched the game with a two run spree in the fourth inning but added one more in the fifth to make things safe. The loss was the third of the year for Jacksons.

SPUD KRIST WINS 12TH STRAIGHT AS CARDS TRIM CUBS

Ace Reliever Holds 15-1 Mark For Four Years With Redbirds

By JUDSON BAILEY

It's time someone introduced Howard (Spud) Krist to the major league public because his pitching record for the St. Louis Cardinals is one of the most remarkable in the big show—15 victories and one defeat spread over four seasons.

The tall righthander was overlooked last year when everybody was agog about Whit Wyatt, Kirby Higbe, Thornton Lee, the comeback of Lefty Gomez and the promise of Howie Pollet. But Krist won 10 games without a loss in 1941 and he has won two more without a setback this season.

Krist's specialty is relief and it was in this role that he earned his second success yesterday as the Cardinals curbed the Chicago Cubs 3-1 in ten innings. He took over in the ninth with two on and two out and promptly forced Olsen to pop to shortstop Martin Marion. In the tenth Enos Slaughter and Coaker Triplett knocked in two St. Louis runs and Krist checked the Cubs although giving up a single and a walk.

Columbia Softballers Win Over St. Paul, Cop Title

Columbia's triumph over St. Paul plus Fourth Street's loss to Reilly gave the Columbians the Mickey McGuire league softball championship Saturday at Reilly field.

The two teams were deadlocked right up to the last game. Had both teams either won or lost, a playoff would have been necessary to decide the sixth grade titleholder.

McKinley's basketball champs were also rated highly in the softball chase but were dropped by Fourth Street after winning several games in a row.

Ohio Golf association state seniors tournament, Scioto Country club, Columbus, June 25-26:

Indications are the entry record of 112 will be eclipsed, since Columbus has pledged 50 players, Toledo and Dayton 20 each, and Marietta 10, leaving only a dozen to be picked up from the rest of the state. R. A. Stranahan, Sr., of Toledo, is defending champ.

Louis will spar several rounds as a feature of the five-hour all sports carnival for the benefit of army and navy relief.

It is the second national title won by Kemper in the last three years.

Columbia Softballers Win Over St. Paul, Cop Title

Columbia's triumph over St. Paul plus Fourth Street's loss to Reilly gave the Columbians the Mickey McGuire league softball championship Saturday at Reilly field.

The two teams were deadlocked right up to the last game. Had both teams either won or lost, a playoff would have been necessary to decide the sixth grade titleholder.

McKinley's basketball champs were also rated highly in the softball chase but were dropped by Fourth Street after winning several games in a row.

Ohio Golf association state seniors tournament, Scioto Country club, Columbus, June 25-26:

Indications are the entry record of 112 will be eclipsed, since Columbus has pledged 50 players, Toledo and Dayton 20 each, and Marietta 10, leaving only a dozen to be picked up from the rest of the state. R. A. Stranahan, Sr., of Toledo, is defending champ.

Ohio Golf association state juniors tournament, Springfield Country Club, Aug. 28:

Frankie Stranahan of Toledo, winner of both the junior and state amateur titles last year, will not defend his junior crown in the fourth annual meet, having passed the age limit.

This and that: For the first time since the O. G. A. launched its series of tournaments, replicas of the championship cups will not be awarded to the winners. All prizes will be in war bonds and stamps.

BYRD, SNEAD DUEL FIRES LINKS FANS

ATLANTIC CITY, May 27.—Sixteen exhausting 36-hole matches were down for settlement today in the opening round of the Professional Golfers association championship at the Sea View club.

Most of the interest was concentrated on one battle—Sammy Sneed vs. Sammy Byrd.

Byrd is the former Yankee outfielder who quit the diamond to see if he could make a better living at golf. Though Sneed was a logical choice to beat him today, there was nothing foregone about it at all. Byrd backers cited the ex-baseballer's two great qualifying rounds, 67-72.

Only one player out-shot Byrd the last two days. That was Harry Cooper, the Minneapolis veteran, who recaptured his wizardry of a half dozen years ago to score 67-71-138 and win the medal. The only other player to do as well as Byrd was Corp. Jim Turnesa. He, too, had a 67-72. Cooper's first round opponent was Mike Turnesa of Elmford, while Corporal Jim met E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Camp Hill, Pa.

As for Sneed, he steadied after his opening day's 73 and came in with a 71 yesterday, clipping a stroke off Sea View's par and finishing with a 34 on his second nine.

National Open champion Craig Wood drew Rod Munday of Toledo, Ohio, as his first opponent. Byron Nelson, the pre-tournament favorite, figured not to be extended seriously by Harry Nettieblatt of Avon, Conn. Ben Hogan drew Ben Loving of Long Meadow, Mass.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — Chattanooga boys long have had their "Knot Hole" at Chattanooga's baseball park, but nothing had been done for their younger sisters until—

Little Gloria Ruth Williams marched into the office of club president Joe Engel and demanded "How come?"
